

Respiratory Therapy Orientation

Clinical Practice & Education has a new structured Respiratory Therapy orientation to integrate Respiratory Therapists into the HHS team. This initiative aims to prepare new hire therapists as well as those changing practice to a new patient population, by building a solid foundation of core knowledge and skill. Staff experience both classroom and hands-on teaching that is rooted in interprofessional collaborative care, evidence-based practice, patient safety and best care for all. This orientation complements the HHS Orientation Pathway and addresses specific needs for Respiratory Therapists, to facilitate a smooth transition into their roles within the various clinical teams that involve Respiratory Therapy across Hamilton Health Sciences.
